

Typically companies have to pull data out of their transaction systems, reformat it, use analytic tools to develop the model, and then run batch analysis on another server. BridgeGate's progressive integration platform enables real-time event processing that significantly accelerates the transformation and delivery of data, which helps companies make smarter decisions more quickly. ”

BridgeGate Offers 300+ Technology and Data Adapters to Speed the Process of Connecting the Enterprise

Even Faster Integration with Adapters Makes More Data Available for Better Decisions and Improved Responsiveness

Through a partnership with the iWay Software division of Information Builders, BridgeGate International offers its clients even faster integration and unmatched access to information with an extensive portfolio of data and technology adapters.

BridgeGate's any-to-any integration platform transforms the delivery of data, with virtually no code, and without impact to existing systems. With the addition of 300+ iWay Software technology and data adapters, BridgeGate's integration platform can connect disparate systems even more quickly, and can turn data into relevant, actionable information, shorten business cycles and increase responsiveness to changing business conditions.

When corporate data is available to an unlimited number of people within and external to your organization, your data can be used to make more informed and faster decisions, identify new opportunities to grow, and understand how well you are performing.

Adapters and Technologies List

BridgeGate provides comprehensive, native access to more than 300 distinct databases and information sources – including relational, legacy, ERP, CRM, data staged in warehouses or data marts, and real-time data from operational systems – on any platform. The next page offers a partial list of the native data, application, and technology adapters provided by BridgeGate (via its partnership with the iWay Software division of Information Builders). If you don't see what you need, please contact us – we are constantly adding new adapters to this list.
